To the fine folks at the FCC. I have been a satellite radio subscriber for several years now, and I was greatly saddened to learn that there are plans by Congress to limit what may be broadcasted via satellite. In this era of huge monolithic radio networks (most notably Clear Channel) I find it necessary to pay for a radio service that doesn't reflect a corporate face. I do not object to paying for a radio service, since this is the cornerstone of the free market. What I do object to is interference in what my satellite radio provider (XM) can broadcast. I live in the NY metropolitan area and find the traffic and weather reports that XM provides to be essential. The very concept that a commercial PAC can have such an effect, is very concerning to me. I urge you to continue to allow transmission of these valuable services to my fellow satellite radio subscribers and myself.

Respectfully Yours,
Joel Zysman
